

Intimate Skin Care - The Gentle Alternative

As we age, the skin begins to lose its elasticity as less fat is produced and the skin's ability to retain moisture declines. Dry skin is frequently linked to redness and itching, and can even cause thinner and more sensitive skin. Changes like this also occur with various skin conditions, which require specific treatment followed by long term care. Now SCLERO discret is there to help with your most intimate skin conditions, free from any side effects.

Thymuskin® SCLERO discret helps care for your dry and itching skin, with special emphasis on sensitive and intimate areas. With its high-dose and patented active complex GKL-02, it is extremely effective in the area of skin regeneration and stabilization.
